Orville Hart Hurt In Wreck

Orville Gusdon Hart of Lynnville route one, age 60, was involved in an automobile accident this morning about three miles west of Murray on the Lynn Grove highway.

Mr. Hart was proceeding east on the highway when, according to witnesses he attempted to pass Miss Peggy Butler of Friendship, Tennessee route one. As he pulled around her in his 1963 Dodge Dart, he saw an oncoming car and tried to get back into his lane.

His wheels hit the soft shoulder of the right side of the road, and threw him to the left where he turned over three times, landing up right. Mr. Hart was thrown from the car and seriously injured.

Police said he skidded 340 feet with 195 feet being on the highway. Deputy Joe Green of the Sheriff's office investigated the accident.

40,000 Vote Majority Seen By Breathitt

PINEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Democratic gubernatorial candidate Edward T. Breathitt Jr., who planned to speak here and at Corbin today, Tuesday predicted he would win the primary nomination by at least 40,000 votes.

He predicted a plurality of 30,000 to 35,000 votes in the 3rd District alone.

In a statewide television program Tuesday night, Breathitt said that all of the election polls that he has seen have shown him well ahead.

"Polls in the high schools, colleges, newspaper polls and private polls—they all favor me. If the people go to the polls and vote, we'll win," he declared.

Breathitt, scheduled an appearance at the Bell County Courthouse at 2 p. m. (EST) and at the Corbin High School Gymnasium at 7:30 p. m. (EST).

At a press conference at Louisville Tuesday afternoon, Breathitt again challenged former Gov. A. B. Chandler to meet him in a face-to-face television debate in the closing days of the campaign.

He proposed that he and the former governor answer questions on campaign issues posed by a panel representing six statewide organizations. He suggested that panelists be chosen from the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, the Chamber of Commerce, the Kentucky state AFL-CIO, the Kentucky Council of Churches and the Kentucky branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

"I don't know whether he Chandler will accept or not, but I think he has an obligation to accept," he said.

Breathitt also challenged Chandler to a face-to-face debate at least 100 times thus far in the campaign, but he never has replied to the challenges.

Madison G. Walters, Shelbyville, state campaign chairman and former Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield, said he had not discussed the new invitation with Chandler but "had reason to believe he had changed his mind."

Breckinridge Allegedly Is Made An Offer

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — State Atty. Gen. John B. Breckinridge charged Tuesday night that he was offered "anything I wished" to withdraw from his race for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

Breckinridge said the alleged offer was made in a meeting with Dan Chandler, and James Daniel in the attorney general's apartment.

Breckinridge said he was told the offer was made by Chandler, the son of gubernatorial candidate A. B. Chandler, said just the opposite was true.

"They were so certain of victory," Breckinridge said in Newport Tuesday night about the Chandler forces, "that they offered to buy me out and offered me anything I wished."

Charges Briebe

He called the offer "a bribe, an outrage and a cheat."

Earlier in Nicholasville where he was campaigning with his father, Dan Chandler said Breckinridge wanted the meeting because the attorney general "felt he no longer had a chance in the lieutenant governor's race."

The younger Chandler said that Breckinridge was also dissatisfied with the tenor of the Breathitt campaign.

"He felt that Gov. Bert Combs had lied and he was angry that he wasn't getting any aid with campaign expenses," Dan Chandler said.

Also present at the meeting was Jim Daniels, a partner in the Daniels-Lewis construction firm which had been criticized by Edward T. Breathitt Jr. Both Chandler and Breckinridge agreed that Daniels, a college fraternity brother of Breckinridge, set up the meeting.

Who Made Suggestions?

But they could not agree on who made the suggestion to Daniels.

"If he says we set up the meeting," said Chandler, "he's lying."

The younger Chandler said that Breckinridge wanted to meet with A. B. Chandler, but "pop wouldn't come to a meeting like that."

Breckinridge questioned whether Dan Chandler is "an emissary for Chandler or he was speaking for himself," and he added that if Dan was speaking for himself, "Happy ought to put him on a leash."

Breathitt A 'Difficulty'

Breckinridge also indicated that he wasn't overly enamored with Breathitt.

"They suggested that I disassociate myself with Breathitt," the attorney general said. "One of my difficulties has been getting associated with him."

Chandler claimed that Breckinridge was willing to declare his support for A. B. Chandler under certain conditions, but the younger Chandler was not specific.

Dan said the meeting ended after Breckinridge said everything had gone too far for him to declare now for Chandler, but indicated that he would look up the Chandler people after May 28.

Controls Voted Down by Nation's Wheat Farmers

By GAYLORD P. GODWIN
United Press International

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's wheat farmers, rebelling against federal controls, today dealt President Kennedy a major farm policy defeat by overwhelming rejecting his strict 1964 wheat program.

Returns from Tuesday's nationwide referendum showed that the President's proposal was buried under an avalanche of "no" votes that could portend a sharp change in federal programs for farmers.

The final Agriculture Department tabulation for the record turnout was 567,776 votes against the administration plan and 547,151 in favor. There were 73,625 challenged votes to be counted later.

The percentage of "yes" votes was 47.79. Kennedy failed to muster a simple majority much less the two-thirds vote he needed to put his program into effect.

Congress Faces Dilemma

The outcome was hailed by the American Farm Bureau Federation as "a bright day for agriculture."

It confronted Congress with the dilemma of whether to enact a new wheat program or let growers operate under a stop-gap plan with lower price supports.

This is what the vote meant for wheat farmers: The 1964 crop will be grown without marketing quotas and no fines for overproduction. Price supports will drop from the present $1.25 a bushel to $1.25 and will be paid only to growers who stay within their acreage allotments.

The decision could have far-reaching effect on other farmers, too, especially in government programs dealing with farm surpluses. Kennedy's "supply management" plan probably would have been proposed for other crops if the wheat farmers had accepted it.

Kennedy and administration leaders in Congress warned in advance that if his proposal was defeated, there would be no new wheat legislation. The President predicted prices would plummet to $1.10 a bushel and surpluses would skyrocket if his plan were rejected.

Chandler Promises On The Sales Tax

By JOSEPH VARILLA
United Press International

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A. B. Chandler said Tuesday it would take a court order to stop him from carrying out a campaign pledge to take the sales tax off Santa Claus this year.

Chandler said he would not be guided by an attorney general's opinion—especially if the attorney general is leaving office within a few months.

The gubernatorial candidate refused to take the advice of Atty. Gen. John B. Breckinridge, who wrote in an official opinion Tuesday that a governor cannot make exemptions in the sales tax by executive order.

Chandler had promised that on the day he is elected he will remove the sales tax from food, clothing and medicine by executive order.

Will Have New Counsel

When informed by telephone of Breckinridge's decision, Chandler said:

"The term of Atty. Gen. Breckinridge will expire shortly after I am inaugurated as governor and I shall look to the new attorney general, and other qualified counsel, for legal advice."

"If as a private citizen, Mr. Breckinridge wants to question or attack the sales tax exemptions which I propose on food, clothing and medicine, the courts will be open to him."

Chandler said the opinion would have no effect on his decision to exempt food, clothing and medicine if he is elected.

No Weight In Law

The opinion of an attorney general is advisory in nature and has no weight of law.

But Breckinridge said that only the legislature can make exemptions in the sales tax law.

"It is a well established principle of taxation," Breckinridge wrote in the official opinion, "that enumeration in a tax provision of certain articles of property which may be exempted excludes all others not mentioned."

BOYS AND BOOKS are more compatible in quarters conducive to concentration, says Decorator Alice D. Kenny, who provided table and comfortable chairs in boys' bedroom.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

LIKE TOPSY, a teenager's room often "just grows" with carvers from childhood and odds and ends recruited from relatives or attic. Sometimes it works out well and sometimes it doesn't, for, says Alice D. Kenny, A.I.D., official decorator for a large builder, teenagers "are people with individual tastes and preferences."

Decorator Rooms

With this in mind, she's created several imaginatively decorated rooms in exhibit houses at Strathmore, Matamoras, N. J. They're settings for teenagers that might well inspire parents.

In planning teen rooms,

these are the tips that Miss Kenny suggests to parents:

1. Keep furniture functional and simple. Choose sectional units with plenty of drawer space, shelves for books and collections, a desk for homework.

Bright Colors

2. Use clear, bright colors. Teens get bored with muted tones.

3. Use curtain fabrics that have a dash. Teens like patterns that show gay figures, hobby motifs or travel posters.

4. Pictures or other wall ornaments should reflect interests. Use such subjects as antique autos, fire engines, costumes, scenes of famous places or some reproductions of classic paintings.

5. Make the room more than a bedroom. Decorate so it can serve as a sitting room for the teenage crowd. Be sure you provide comfortable chairs, a record player, possibly even a game table.

Sixth Point

Miss Kenny's five points are good ones. We have a sixth point of our own to add:

Don't just forge ahead solo with decorating plans. Consult your teen as to color preferences and suggestions. After all, it's going to be his or her room! Let him or her have a voice in planning it.

Dear Abby . .

Exit Laughing!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: You probably won't believe this is written by a 21-year-old girl, but it is I am dating a man (let's call him Arthur) but not steady. I date others, too, but he's the only man I know who is in a position to get married. I know he is crazy about me. The problem: Every time he goes to kiss me he gets a sort of pained expression on his face and his nostrils widen, making him look like a horse. I just "break up" and go into a laughing fit which I can't control. Abby, I really care for this man, but I'm running it for myself. What is the matter with me?

ARTHUR'S IDIOT DEAR IDIOT: If you "break up" at what should be a very tender and sober moment—break up with Arthur. He is definitely not for you.

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor and I are good friends. Her eight-year-old daughter, whom I shall call Janie, plays with my seven-year-old daughter. If my suggestions do not meet with "Janie's" approval, she opens up a mouth with a sassiness such as I've never heard from a child. I've tried to be patient, but my own daughter has started to pick it up and it has now reached the breaking point. I've heard "Janie" speak to her mother this way without punishment or correction, but wonder if she knows the child talks to other adults in this manner. Should I forbid my daughter to play with Janie? Should I correct Janie myself? Or should I risk my friendship with my neighbor by telling her that I will not be "told off" by a child?

THE BREAKING POINT DEAR BREAKING: Tell your neighbor in a friendly way that you will not permit her daughter to sass you. And inform her that unless Janie stops it, your daughter will not be allowed to play with her.

DEAR ABBY: I work at a fountain in a drug store. Also working in this drug store is an older woman who is stealing the store blind. One day I caught her in the act and called her on it and she said, "Doesn't everyone?" Should I tell the manager?

DEAR "V": Advise the manager to watch the woman and get his own evidence.

Garden Club Re-Dedicates Floral Clock

"MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME" and other melodies by "The Stephen Foster Story" ensemble rang out over the State Capitol grounds as the Garden Club of Kentucky, Inc. re-dedicated Kentucky's floral clock. Some 500 onlookers turned out for the ceremony on the Capitol grounds, abloom with tulips, geraniums, and other spring flora. The clock itself, first dedicated in May 1961, holds a bouquet of some 10,000 spring blossoms. Its wishing pool has yielded over $4,500 for the purchase of recreation equipment for State child-care agencies and for a University of Kentucky horticulture scholarship presented annually by the Garden Club.

FATHER OF RADIO . . . Prof. William Bonham (right), speech department, and Don Youngs, junior, Anna, III, active on the Thoroughbred Hour, inspect the campus monument to Nathan B. Stubblefield during National Radio Month (May).

Nathan Stubblefield Remembered
As Precocious Child, Bitter Man

Over 60 years ago, 1,000 people assembled at the Calloway County court square to see, to hear, and to be amazed. The event—the first public demonstration of Nathan B. Stubblefield's "wireless telephony" which later became known over the world as the radio.

As people observe May as National Radio Month, many local residents will recall the story of the man who is becoming more nationally recognized as the inventor of the radio.

Born in Murray in 1860, the radio genius was always thought to be a little peculiar—not unbalanced but just different.

Perhaps it was Stubblefield's undying interest in applied science that deepened his interest of reading books and periodicals concerning electronics after he quit school at the age of 15.

The inventor worked as a truck driver to support his wife and children. He began to experiment in his early twenties. These early experiments were made at Stubblefield's home, located about 100 feet west of the campus monument dedicated to him.

By 1892 Stubblefield was able to transmit the human voice over his invention. One of the first messages conveyed on the "wireless telephony" was "Hello, Rainey!" This greeting was from Stubblefield to Dr. Rainey T. Wells, later president of Murray State College.

Stubblefield said about his invention: "I claim for my apparatus . . . that it will convey messages . . . from vessels in any part of the ocean to other vessels or to their owners on land . . ."

"Eventually I, or someone, will discover a method of tuning the transmitting and receiving instruments so that each will answer only to its mate . . ."

"The system can be developed until messages by voice can be sent and heard all over the country, to Europe, all over the world. There is nothing to stop it. The world is its limits. This may seem like boasting. It is not . . ."

"Eventually it will be used for the general transmission of news of every description . . ."

At the age of 42, Stubblefield made his Murray demonstration. Later he conducted a series of similar demonstrations in New York, Washington, and Philadelphia. At Washington, he broadcast from a ship in the Potomac River to a group of persons on shore.

Despite such evidences of success, the inventor made one mistake—he did not patent his invention until 1908. During these years, Stubblefield signed his rights to his invention for shares in a company that would promote and develop it.

The stocks then disappeared and the company's role in the affair has remained a mystery.

After this Stubblefield seems to have developed into a very disillusioned and bitter person. He built a two-room hut which he insulated with cornstalks. There he proudly lived, refusing help from outsiders. He was found dead on March 28, 1928, in his squalid little shack. He appeared to have died of starvation three days before. He was buried in an unmarked grave.

TWO GOOD TERMS DESERVE ANOTHER

The Positive Platform of Ned Breathitt

FARM TO MARKET ROADS

Ned Breathitt will build twice as many rural roads as are now being built. And he will build them where roads are needed, not according to political needs.

SCHOOLS

Breathitt wants quality education and more classrooms. Quality education will mean more jobs for all of us because industry is attracted to an educated state.

JOBS

Breathitt has set as his goal 75,000 new jobs for Kentuckians during his administration. More jobs will put more money in the pockets of Kentuckians.

TAXES

Ned Breathitt pledges no new taxes. We must have a tax climate that is favorable to industry and creates jobs for our citizens.

KENTUCKY'S TURNPIKES

Ned Breathitt will complete the state turnpike system, and integrate it with the interstate system to give the state four-lane, limited access highways to serve all Kentuckians.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE

Breathitt will increase the average old age monthly payments by about $16. Payments to the blind and disabled and to dependent children will also be raised.

BILLION DOLLAR FARM ECONOMY

Ned Breathitt will work toward a billion dollar a year farm economy through a 10 point plan endorsed by Kentucky agricultural leaders.

MORALITY IN GOVERNMENT

Ned Breathitt believes in consideration for all, favor for none. His administration will set an example of honesty and integrity for all Kentuckians.

CONSERVATION AND FLOOD CONTROL

Breathitt is determined to solve the state's flooding problems through better control of strip mining, dredging of streams, reforestation and closer coordination with the Federal government in getting flood control projects. "We must move now for the sake of future generations," he says.

er acres planted to wheat apparently played a key role in defeat of the President's program. They make up more than half of all U. S. wheat farms.

Seta Precedent
For the first time in a wheat referendum Congress gave them permission to vote if they agreed to accept the administration's production-marketing control program.

The state vote ranged from a high of 87.9 per cent for the Kennedy plan in Kentucky to a low of 11.6 per cent in Vermont, where only 43 votes were cast.

Kansas, the nation's biggest wheat producer, voted 41.8 per cent for the administration program. Other big wheat-growing states and their vote were: North Dakota, 65.8 per cent; Illinois, 30 per cent; Minnesota, 65.7; Oklahoma, 40.6; and Texas, 44.2.

Only six states gave the administration the two-thirds majority required for its program. They were Georgia, Kentucky, Maine, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Alaska and New Hampshire cast no votes. Hawaii was not eligible because it had no wheat allotment.

THE TRUTH ABOUT Earl T. Osborne

★ Candidate For ★

CIRCUIT JUDGE

To The Voters of Calloway, Marshall and

Livingston Counties:

When I first made by announcement for re-election as your Circuit Judge, I was under the impression that a public official who properly performed his duties as prescribed by law and lived his life each day in compliance with the Golden Rule could properly present these facts and reasonably request the public support.

My opponent has seen fit to change the facts and to distort and misrepresent the truth. Therefore, with my apologies for having to do so, I would like herein to state a few facts and set straight some of his ridiculous misrepresentations.

For many years the law of Kentucky has provided that candidates for the offices of Circuit Judge or Judge of the Court of Appeals could cross-file, in short, could file on both the Democratic and Republican ticket. The intent and purpose of this law is to remove partisan politics from our Courts. When a citizen appears in Court it should not matter whether he is a Republican or a Democrat and by the same token he should not have to be concerned about which party the Judge belongs to.

For the above reasons I have always cross-filed and did so in this election. Now Mr. Gordon is taking advantage of this and attempting to make the public believe that I am the Republican candidate and that he is the Democratic candidate. Nothing could be further from the truth. I apologize for having to make this explanation because of its unimportance in determining the qualifications of a man for public office, but in my opinion his misleading statements have made it necessary.

My great-grandfather was from Halifax County, Virginia, and fought with the Confederate forces in the Civil War. My grandfather and my father were both Democrats. I have been a registered Democrat all of my adult life and prior to my election to the judiciary, I served as Secretary of the Democratic party in Marshall County. Neither myself nor any of my ancestors, to the best of my knowledge, have ever been a member of any other party.

I hope this sets at rest once and for all this business about who is a Democrat and who is a Republican. Mr. Gordon has made many other charges as baseless and groundless as his charge that I am a Republican candidate. But, with firm faith that you the people have the wisdom to discern between the real issues and trash in a campaign, I will close.

Sincerely yours

EARL T. OSBORNE

MY FRIENDS IN CALLOWAY AND TRIGG COUNTIES:

In a few days the voters will elect a person to serve as State Representative. I have carefully observed the work of our present Representative, Charlie Lassiter. I hope every voter will consider his record. I have never seen a more dedicated man. Honesty and efficiency means a great deal in public life. For an honest and sober administration, let's all go to the polls and give Charlie Lassiter the largest majority in the history of Calloway and Trigg Counties.

Respectfully,

Mrs. Nat Green

The New EMILIE LORING Follow Your Heart

CHAPTER 22
Jim Trevort took a large scale map of Mapleville and vicinity out of his pocket and drew a circle with the burned warehouse as the center. It was a nice day for a walk and Roger Clayton had told him he'd be free to use the time as he liked. From what he remembered of Mapleville he could eliminate almost all the buildings contained within the circumference of his circle. What then? There were only four possibilities. The first, he remembered, was an abandoned farm. When he reached it, he saw the trucks and workmen cars lining the road. An excavation was being dug. The old building had been torn down to make room for what was apparently going to be a huge house. No point in lingering here.

At the second, he did not even check his stride. This farm had been converted into a summer camp for small boys. Only a madman would risk concealing a bomb here.

That left two possibilities. The house belonging to Abraham Allen and Penn Manor, his father's former home.

Allen! Jim's lips tightened. From the day when he had returned to Mapleville, he had known that sooner or later he must have a showdown with Allen. In one way or another, he intended to force him to clear Andrew Trevor's name, if he had to shake the truth out of him.

Abraham Allen lived in a converted farmhouse which had been modernized and expanded. The garage doors were open and the car was gone. There were no signs of life.

Jim leaned against a post and looked over the property. He slipped into the grounds and crossed the lawn. From the side, he could see the back of the property. There was a large vegetable garden and a man in overalls was bending down, working between the neat rows. Allen would never have buried the bomb where his gardener might unearth them.

Remembering Allen's slight build and his age, it seemed unlikely to Jim that he could have carried the bomb up to the attic. That left the basement or the toolroom of the garage. He examined the tool room in one nasty look. It was as neat and as well organized as the shelves of a hardware store. That left the basement.

He waited inside the garage until he saw the gardener stoop again, back turned to him. Then he ran across the driveway and stood listening at the screen door of the kitchen.

He let himself in softly and looked for the cellar door. Up stairs he heard noisy steps. The housekeeper moving around. He opened the cellar door and went quickly down the steps.

He switched on his flashlight and began to search. If the missing bomb were anywhere in the house they would find it. He moved from room to room, opening doors and drawers. He went to the kitchen and found the right size now. He was opening an old-fashioned trunk when an unannounced light flashed on. He whirled around, the top of the trunk slamming shut.

Abraham Allen stood facing him, nodding a small revolver pointed at Jim's head.

"Don't move," or I'll shoot. Stand back against the wall. Raise your arms over your head."

Jim, raging at himself for being off guard, for letting himself be caught by Allen, of all men in the world, did as he was told. Only a fool argues with a loaded gun.

Allen looked him over in leisu- rous silence, eyes steady and cool as a fish, mouth drawn tightly in at the corners. A hard and unsmiling man. Jim thought. But a courageous man.

"I've seen you before," Allen said at last. "Why you are Roger Clayton's chauffeur."

"I am also," Jim said quietly. "Andrew Trevor's son."

There was a quick flash in the cold eyes. "So that explains it," Allen said nastily. "A thief like your father."

Jim dropped his arms, stepped forward.

"Don't move," Allen said sharply.

"I wasn't going to touch you," Jim said, and the contempt in his voice stung the older man. "I don't lift men old enough to be my father. But no one knows better than you, Honest Abe, that you are lying. Deliberately lying. You know my father made an honest mistake."

Allen smiled. His hand tightened on his revolver. "You can't frighten me and you can't talk your way out of this by trying to draw any red herrings across the path. I've caught you in the act."

"What act?" Jim asked coolly.

"Housebreaking. Robbery. Don't think for a moment that I won't expose you to Clayton."

"Exposing?" Jim laughed. "That's about the best thing you do, isn't it, Honest Abe? If there is any exposing to be done, that's going to be my job," he added tightly. "I intend to expose you not merely to Clayton but to everyone in Mapleville. I want them to see you as you are. The man who deliberately blackened my father's name out of vindictive jealousy. Because you couldn't be the kind of man he is. You couldn't say for yourself the kind of popularity he earned by his sheer kindness, his sheer goodness. You've let him spend four years in exile, in a

Armed Services Committee in Washington, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara declared 138,000 military families are living in sub-standard housing. He urged Congress to provide better housing for families of servicemen.
Above are two examples of what he termed sub-standard facilities at premium prices. An Airman 1st Class at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Alaska, rents the basement of the top house for $160 a month. A lieutenant, his wife and child live in the lower apartment near L. G. Hanscom Field, Bedford, Mass., for $100 a month. The central heating plant for the entire building is in their living room.

CITY ORDINANCE

Ordinance 404

106 Board of Appeals

(1) General

a. There is hereby created a Board of Building and Housing Appeals consisting of five members appointed by the appointing authority of the city. To the extent practicable, it shall be composed of one realtor or representative of a mortgage lending institution, one physician or public health nurse, two of any of the following: architect, engineer, contractor, or building materials dealer, and one member from the community at large.b. Of the members first appointed, two shall be appointed for a term of one year, two for a term of two years, one for a term of three years and thereafter they shall be appointed for terms of four years.
Vacancies shall be filled for an unexpired term in the manner in which original appointments are required to be made. Continued absence of any member from regular meetings of the Board shall, at the discretion of the appointing authority, render any such member liable to immediate removal from office.c. Three members of the Board shall constitute a quorum. In varying the application of any provisions of this Code or in modifying an order of the Building Official, affirmative votes of the majority present but not less than three affirmative votes shall be required. No boardmember shall act in a case in which he has a personal interest.d. The Board shall establish rules and regulations for its own procedure not inconsistent with the provisions of this ordinance.
The Board shall meet at regular intervals, to be determined by the Chairman, or in any event,
the Board shall meet within ten days after notice of appeal has been received.e. The Board shall have the power to administer oaths, affirmations, examine witnesses and receive evidence.(2) Variances From the Requirements of This OrdinanceWhere, because of conditions peculiar to a particular building, it would be unreasonably difficult to meet the literal requirements of this code, a variance may be granted by the Board upon written application therefor. Such application shall state in writing the reasons why the variance shall be made. A variance may be granted only where it is evident that reasonable safety and sanitation is assured, and may include conditions not generally specified by this ordinance in order to achieve that end. The variance may include an expiration date.A copy of the variance shall be filed in the office of the Building Official and a copy shall be given to the applicant.(3) Appeals From Decisions of the Building Officiala. Whenever it is claimed that the true intent and meaning of this ordinance has been wrongly interpreted or that the time allowed for compliance is unreasonable, the owner, his agent, or the occupant as the case may be, may file a notice of appeal from a decision or order of the Building Official. Such notice shall be in writing and filed within 10 days after the decision or order of the Building Official has been made.b. The Board, when so appealed to, may modify the decision or order of the Building Official.
Its decision shall be final, subject, however, to such remedy
as any aggrieved person may have at law or in equity. The Board's decision shall be in writing and shall be filed in the office of the Building Official and a certified copy shall be given to the appellant.

107 Administrative Procedures

a. The Building Official shall for each inspection made make an inspection report noting any violations of this ordinance or conditions which indicate that a dwelling is unfit for human habitation or that any other building is unsafe. He shall give a copy to the owner or occupant, or both,
as the case may require, and shall retain one copy. Except where a complaint is provided for in 107 (2),
a copy of the report shall serve as notice to the affected persons that there is a violation of this ordinance and may require a time limit for compliance.b. The Building Official may appeal and cause to be served in the manner prescribed in Section 106 a complaint charging that a dwelling is unfit or that any other building is unsafe. His inspection discloses a basis for so charging.
The complaint shall state:
That a hearing will be held before the Building Official or his designated agent at a place therein fixed for less than 10 days nor more than 30 days after the serving of the complaint; that theowner and parties in interest may file an answer to the complaint and to appear in person, or otherwise and give testimony at the place and time fixed in the complaint; and that the rules of evidence prevailing in courts of law or equity shall not be controlling in hearings before the Building Official.If after such notice and hearing, the Building Official determines that the dwelling or dwelling unit under consideration is unfit for human habitation or the building is dangerous, he shall state in writing, his findings of fact in support of such determination, and shall issue an order to be served upon the owner thereof an order, to the intent and within the time specified in the order, to repair alter, or improve the said dwelling or other building to render it fit and safe; or if the repair, alteration or improvement can be made at a cost that is not more than fifty per cent of the value of the building, at the option of the owner, to vacate and close the dwelling or other building; or if the repair cannot be made at a cost that is not more than fifty per cent of the value, within the time specified in the order, to remove or demolish the said dwelling or other building.108 Service of Reports, Notices, Complaints or Orders(1) Reports or Notices issued by the Building Official pursuant hereto, shall be served upon persons either personally or by registered mail to the last known address of the person or persons.(2) Complaints or Orders shall be served upon persons either personally or by registered mail, but if the whereabouts of any person is unknown and the same cannot be ascertained by the Building
Official in the exercise of reasonable diligence, and the Building Official shall make an affidavit to that effect, then the serving of a complaint or order upon such person may be made by publishing the same once a week for two successive weeks in the official newspaper of the city, service being deemed complete
upon the date of the last publication. A copy of such complaint or order shall be posted in a conspicuous place on premises affected by the complaint or order and shall be recorded in the office of the circuit clerk of the county wherein the dwelling or building is located.
